Component Information

Tubs (HTUB) and covers (HCVR) are designed to enclose The Watt Stopper lighting control panels. Tubs hold the interiors of lighting control panels, including relays, contactors, and wire terminals, as well as power supplies, and other central components such as automation modules or controller cards. Hinged, latching, lockable covers are available for either surface or flush mount applications. Larger tub enclosures provide DIN rail for mounting contactors and other accessory components.

Features & Applications

Both the tubs and covers come in six sizes. The size of the tub must match the size of the cover (see below for detailed information). Rated NEMA 1, both the tubs and covers are suitable for dry indoor locations, such as electrical rooms or closets. The modularity of these components enables the tub to be mounted in the early stages of construction to allow conduit installation and rough-in wiring. Later, lighting circuits and low voltage control wiring can be completed and the enclosure cover installed.
